Radio station opens with new call letters

The careful observer can now see a radio antenna on the roof of the Graduate House. Its installation during intersession, combined with the rewiring of the station itself, marked the completion of all technical work required for WRAR's first FM broadcast.

It also marked one of the station's final acts as WRAR. "The call letters are being changed in compliance with an FCC requirement," explained Bob Paul, general manager of the station. "The requirement states that no two stations in the country may use the same calls."

Paul applied for the letters WRAR as a first choice, and was informed that the Rappahanock Broadcasting Company in Tappahanock, Virginia, had secured a prior claim on the letters. "Official acknowledgement of our second choice, WRUW, has not yet come," said Paul, "but we expect it within the next few weeks."

Acting on this assumption, he has designated February 26 as the new broadcasting date for WRUW-FM, 91.1.

"Our present plans call for a 51-hour broadcast week," he said, "Sunday from 1 p.m. until midnight and Monday through Friday from 4 p.m. until midnight." Sheldon Gawiser, program director, still has a few openings for interested programmers and can be contacted at extension 704.
